EVENINGS IN QUARANTINE: THE ZOMBIE OPERA RETURNS

Pittsburgh, PA, February 1, 2011 - Evenings in Quarantine: The Zombie Opera returns for a reprise performance at Chatham University's Eddy Theater May 6-7, 2011, following a sold out October 2010 premiere.

"There was a lot of popular demand for the show to return before October," says Artistic Director Elizabeth Rishel. "Because it sold out so quickly, we're doing our second performance in a larger venue, with the hope that people who were working other Halloween-themed events will be able to attend."

Created by Artistic Directors Bonnie Bogovich and Elizabeth Rishel, Evenings in Quarantine has been compared to "Puccini, but with stronger brain eating," and "Kafka on Broadway." The show is a hybrid theatrical and film production which features a moving, interactive video backdrop to portray the zombie-infested streets of Pittsburgh. The story follows three college friends as they try to make their way to a military-controlled safe zone while grappling with both each other and the undead. Evenings in Quarantine also features the talents of Film Director Barry Bogovich, Special Effects Make-up Designer Arvin Clay, and Director of Photography Edwin Huang.

Tickets are $25 for general admission, $15 for seniors, students (with ID), and project participants. Both performances are at 8:00 p.m. and doors open at 7:30 p.m. For more information, please visit www.thezombieopera.com.

This project is supported by fiscal sponsor New Sun Rising.
